2016 Annual Water Quality Report

Public Water System Name: FARMERS WATER CO.
Public Water System Numbers: 10008, 10009, 10013, 10014

We are pleased to provide to all of our valued customers our Annual Water Quality Report (AWQR) for 2016, also known as the Consumer Confidence Report. We would like to see you understand about the quality of the water you drink every day. We are committed to providing you with a safe and reliable supply of drinking water.

Groundwater Protection (Protecting Drinking Water)
The most important source of drinking water and bottled water is groundwater. It is found in aquifers, wells, springs, and cisterns. Its water levels are on the surface of the land or through the ground. It is constantly being recharged naturally and, in some cases, collected, stored, and pumped up into reservoirs from the ground or from other sources nearby.

As groundwater is a natural resource, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has established regulations limiting the amount of contaminants in water provided by public water systems. The Public Drinking Water Act requires public water systems to monitor for contaminants in their water.

All drinking water, including bottled water, may occasionally be exposed to natural or man-made contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water is harmful.

Other Water Sources
Farmers Water Co. provides water from several wells for the distribution of public water to its public water systems:

- FWS 0001 - Adams
- FWS 0002 - Columbia
- FWS 0003 - North River Springs
- FWS 0004 - Indiana Springs

Each FWS has a dedicated well, storage tank, pressure tank, and distribution system. Farmers Water Co. pumps from the aquifer, monitors water quality, and distributes the water to each of our distribution systems. It is important to monitor the water quality to ensure that the water delivered to our customers meets the highest standards of safety. Farmers Water Co. takes seriously the potential for contamination and regularly monitors its systems.

Protecting Our Water System
Protecting our ability to provide water services by taking preventive measures is essential to the safety and reliability of our water system.

Each year, Farmers Water Co. (FWS) 10008, 10009, 10013, and 10014 are each subject to a comprehensive water quality audit. The purpose of this audit is to help protect your drinking water system, and operations about the Annual Water Quality Report, or AWQR, about the quality of the water you drink every day. We are committed to providing you with a safe and reliable supply of drinking water.

- Contaminants That May Be Present Include:
1. Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which can cause illness and death in some people.
 2. Inorganic contaminants, such as nitrate, which can cause health problems in some people.
 3. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and natural pesticides, which can be harmful to you and your family.
 4. Radionuclides, which can be harmful to you and your family.

Water Quality Protection
These people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Seniors, pregnant women, and people with existing health conditions are more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. For more information about contaminants and potential health effects, or to learn more about EPA and CDP's public water system monitoring, contact your local health department or call the EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4773.

Water is one of those resources that is both wasted and undervalued—according to the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), 47% of the world's population will live in "areas of high water stress" by 2030 if conservation policies aren't implemented. And climate change (read: unpredictable weather) will only increase the problem in the coming years. That's why it makes sense that the Carbon Disclosure Project, a U.K.-based nonprofit that has the largest database of corporate climate change information in the world, is targeting water with the CDP Water Disclosure project. The project, launched this week, asks over 300 of the world's biggest companies to report their water use on behalf of 137 major financial institutions that have signed a request for information. Questions on the CDP's 11-page questionnaire (PDF) deal with everything from water use in supply chains to regulatory risks related to water. Some companies are jumping at the opportunity to take part in the project—we have already received eager press releases from Molson Coors and Ford detailing their participation. Other companies that have signed on include L'Oréal, Reed Elsevier, and PepsiCo. The information contained in the questionnaire is ultra-important to investors, but it's not going to be easy for companies to fill out. While it might be simple enough to detail water use of internal operations, getting suppliers to reveal their water usage statistics isn't quite as easy. Still, it's better that major companies hash out their water issues now instead of 20 years down the line—by then, it might be too late to fix them. [CDP Water Disclosure] Water Corporation is the principal supplier of water, wastewater, drainage and bulk irrigation services in Western Australia to hundreds of thousands of homes, businesses and farms. Directly employing 3,662 people, we provide a high level of expertise and a strong commitment to our customers, community and state. We also manage $38 billion (replacement value) of assets to deliver water services across 2.6 million square kilometres. Download our corporate snapshot Our corporate governance is underpinned by robust values and behaviours. This section includes a description of corporate governance practices which form a framework to ensure we act with high standards of corporate behaviour and in the best interests of our owner. Download our corporate governance report As we continue to feel the impact of climate change, we need to plan carefully to meet the future needs of our customer, community and state. This section details how we ensure our operations are safe for all, with the lowest environmental impact and at the lowest total cost.
