Notification of change in NIGC Fingerprint Processing

In an effort to streamline our procedures, the NIGC has recently re-evaluated its policies and procedures regarding the processing of fingerprint cards of key employees and primary management officials. The NIGC is announcing new procedures that will alleviate some of our intensive workload as well as comply with our newly proposed record retention procedures. These changes will also enable the NIGC to be more responsive to the needs of tribal gaming regulators.

FBI "NO ARREST RECORD" FINGERPRINT RETURNS

Previously, when the NIGC received the results of the FBI criminal record checks, copies of the results were retained by the NIGC and copies were provided to authorized Tribal governmental officials. Effective immediately, the NIGC will no longer retain copies of the responses but instead will return the original FBI fingerprint results to authorized tribal government officials. However, original "Arrest Record" responses will continue to be retained by the NIGC with copies provided to tribal officials.

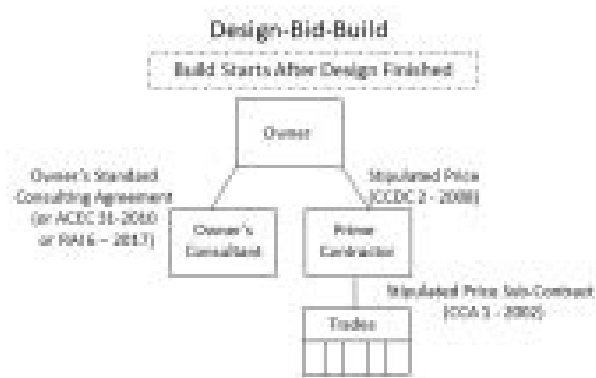

ILLEGIBLE FINGERPRINT SUBMISSIONS

The NIGC is still experiencing a large number of fingerprint cards being returned by the FBI as illegible. (Illegible fingerprints are those prints that are not properly taken and as a result cannot be searched by fingerprint characteristics through the FBI criminal files.) To assist Tribes, effective immediately, the NIGC will now screen fingerprint submissions upon receipt to determine whether the fingerprints are legible for FBI processing. If the NIGC determines that fingerprints are illegible, the fingerprint card will be returned to the submitting tribe with a request that the individual be re-fingerprinted and re-submitted to the NIGC for processing. This will eliminate the delay resulting from FBI attempted processing of illegible fingerprints.

CCDC 14 is a standard first-hand contract between the Owner and the Design-Builder in which the Design-Builder provides the Design Services and performs the Work under a single contract, for a single, pre-established or fixed price. * Click here for more information about CCDC 30 * Available electronically only. CCDC 14 also identifies and describes the roles of other parties, such as the advisor and the payment certifier as well as any advisor to the landlord. The framework contract is a contract between the owner and the contractor applicable for a defined period of time and intended to establish contractual terms and conditions (excluding scope, time and costs) for multiple projects during that period of time. Each project will be ordered through work authorizations, which define the specific requirements of the project such as scope, price, time. Once in the registration form, enter your registration number 4. Archives * Available electronically only. This document is free of charge. CCDC 30 The Integrated Project Delivery Contract addresses specific issues related to Integrated Project Delivery (IPD) projects, including scope allocation, payments, changes, conflict management, resolution, insurance and contract security, and allocation of responsibilities. Operating on the basis of an agreed price, the CCDC 2 assumes monthly payments of progress made and refers, where appropriate, to provincial payment legislation. * Available electronically and in hard copy. This contract establishes a single fixed price, or lump sum, for the project. CCDC 2 The Stipulated Price Contract is the standard basic contract of the industry between Owner and First Contractor. The roles and responsibilities of the parties are clearly defined in all of the IPD process: validation phase; design/procurement phase; construction phase; and warranty phase. The Master Agreement CCDC 2MAAA 2016 has been developed to meet the needs of owners with Ongoing construction or maintenance programme: enter into specific working arrangements quickly and easily, without having to revise and renegotiate the general terms and conditions for each work order. Design-Builder Checks design services and work; examines the statement of A owner requirements or other A project information, Elaborates Construction Documents; Involves consultants, other consultants and subcontractors. CCDC 12 AA 1994 is a model form to assist the Owner in demonstrating that financial arrangements have been made to fulfill the Owner's obligations under the contract (e.g. CCDC 2A). CCDC 18 AA 2001 The Civil Works Contract is a first-class standard contract between Owner and Contractor for the construction of civil works, e.g. roads, bridges, dams, underground services, etc. Profits of the design/build group shall be identified and allocated to a pool of risks which remain at risk provided that mutually agreed project objectives are achieved. * Available electronically only. Purchase of a registration number from a document outlet 2. Based on an approach similar to standard customer consultancy contracts (i.e. RAIC 6 and ACEC 31), CCDC 15 lists all the basic design services considered necessary in a design-build contract. This contract allows for a variety of types of remuneration, including the use of fixed compensation, compensation based on the value of the Work, compensation based on time-based rates, or any combination of them. The price structure is cost plus with a target price. CCDC 15 also includes a program that lists typical additional design services that the Consultant may be required to provide. Instructions: 1. The CCDC 15 is a standard contract between the and the Consultant for the execution of the Design Services required under a design-build contract between the Owner and the Designer. CCDC 31 AA The service agreement between owner and consultant is a standard service agreement to be used between owner and Engineer. And specifically for use when the project is executed according to the CCDC 5A Construction Management method of the contract. Please note that some fields of the registration form are mandatory. These design services are listed in a Plan, which allows flexibility for the Designer-Builder and the Consultant to determine the scope of the services and the method of compensation. The main terms and conditions covered in CCDC 15 include: Copyright and use of documents; roles and responsibilities of the Design-Builder in providing information to the Consultant and reviewing the project; roles and responsibilities of the Consultant in providing design services; hiring Sub-Consultants and coordinating other Consultants; Design to meet the construction budget; Limitation of liability for Design Services. What's the document? The CCDC 31 clearly outlines the scope of the Consultant Professional Services with Schedule A, which allows users to select the Consultant's specific tasks for the project. What's the document? * Click here to download the CCDC 41 insurance requirements. * Available electronically only. Originally adapted by ACEC 31 at the request of ACEC, the document has been updated in accordance with the existing CCDC principles and terminology, in line with CCDC 2. The CCDC 30 also describes the project management structure of an IPD project, which includes the Senior Management Group, the Project Management Group and the Project Implementation Groups. CCDC 31 also contains provisions regarding the roles and responsibilities of both parties, insurance requirements, dispute resolution and more.
